

negotiation, but also offer recognized public interest benefits.

Conclusion

Congress enacted Section 628 to address a specific perceived problem -- unfair or deceptive acts and practices that "significantly hinder" or "impede" the distribution of satellite programming to consumers. The Commission must narrowly craft its rules to address that problem while recognizing the numerous differences in prices, terms and conditions that are commercially justified and fair. To limit legitimate business practices and eliminate flexibility in the sale of programming will stifle competition to the detriment of distribution media, programmers and consumers.
